JAP ATTACK ON MIDWAY IS BEATEN OFF

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

I have before me an old, old picture, the property of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parrett, residing north of Bloomingburg, which was taken away back yonder when the first G. A. R. Encampment was held in Washington C. H. nearly a half century ago.

The picture was taken in front of the old Gardner House, on Main Street, formerly the home of J. F. Ely, and shows a very large number of G. A. R. veterans, in uniform, with two or three small boys seated on the ground in front of the group of Fayette County veterans.

Nearly all of the men wore mustaches and quite a few had chin whiskers as well as sideburns.

While the picture is now dim with age, Thomas H. Craig, Sr., and others, have been able to identify quite a number of the men—all of whom have long since answered the final call. Those identified are: Nathan Crooks, William Limes, A. F. Ramsey, G. M. Paul, C. J. Bell, Lennox Campbell, George Jenkins, Alexander Price, Milton Barre, Fred Backenstoe, John Sammons, H. V. Rodgers, Losson Parrett, William S. Glaze, John Coughlin, George Gossard, J. B. Andrews, Van Pelt, Smith; Riley Jacobs, J. H. Gossard, Isaac Carman, Harry Rodgers and L. Saxton.

To the many close friends of Mrs. C. F. Ballard and her granddaughter, Ann Robinson, last night's commencement exercises held a special interest. Mrs. Ballard, who as Miss Netta Hegler, was a member of the Class of 1876 of Washington High School, the first graduating class of the school, and to her came the pride and joy of being present to see her granddaughter receive her diploma in the class of 1942. Many commencement exercises have been witnessed by this charming elderly lady, those for her friends, relatives, sons, and daughters and grandchildren.

Another "young" fellow attending the sixty-sixth exercises was Herbert Maynard, of Waterloo, Iowa, also a member of the Class of '76. He made the trip especially to attend the exercises.

The graduates should and did feel honored in having two such distinguished persons attending their commencement. It was said at the superintendent's office the morning after the commencement, that had it been realized that Mrs. Ballard and Mr. Maynard were in the audience, some appropriate recognition would have been accorded them.

NAZI BATTLESHIPS HIT BY RAF BOMBS

Norwegian Sources Reveals
Damage Done by Raids

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—The German battleship Tirpitz and the German heavy cruiser Admiral Hipper received "several direct hits" during the last RAF bombing raid on the Trondheim area, Norwegian sources reported here today, quoting advice from Trondheim.

One of the ships, not specified developed a definite list, these sources said.

The Norwegians said the RAF raids April 29-30 also scored hits on airfields at Vaernes and Oerlandet. The Germans blocked off the Oerlandet Field, but it was learned the barracks were hit and 17 Germans killed at Vaernes.

After the raids, these sources added, workmen on the German naval base being built at Trondheim went on strike and many left the area.

Marshall Erwin Rommel was reported moving strong Axis reinforcements into the bloody 11-day-old battle of North Africa today as the British announced they had smashed an Axis tank assault on Bir El Hacheim for the second time in two days.

Bir El Hacheim, a desert water hole, is the southern anchor of a 50-mile British defense line stretched across the hot sands to the Mediterranean Sea.

British headquarters said British and Indian troops struck from the rear to relieve the Free French and Indian garrison at Bir El Hacheim after the defenders had twice rejected German demands that they surrender the key stronghold.

Front-line dispatches said Rommel was speeding fresh troops and tanks into the battle sector around Tobruk in an attempt to relieve pressure on a 9-mile corridor which Axis forces had driven into the British main defense line.

British mechanized forces were reported slashing at Axis tanks.

LONDON BLAMES FOR FOR TIRE SHORTAGE

Former GOP Candidate Urges
Synthetics

CHICAGO, June 5.—(AP)—Alf M. Landon, Kansas oil operator and 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said today the government could solve the rubber shortage and the farm problem at the same time by making rubber not from petroleum but from alcohol produced from grain.

"I do not think I am taking any shingles off my own roof," he asserted in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Chicago Executive Club, "because in the long run the oil industry would benefit by the greatest prosperity the farmers ever knew."

The former Kansas governor was critical of administration handling of the rubber and gasoline problems, asserting: "The whole rubber situation has been fumbled from start to finish, and we are paying the penalty. As the facts are revealed by congressional committees, it is the President, and not Jesse Jones, who slowed down the synthetic rubber program."

$50-a-Month Basic Pay For Service Men with Family Allowance Near

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Early Congressional approval of $50 monthly minimum pay for the armed forces appeared likely today, with the probability that soldiers, sailors and Marines having dependents would be required to contribute $20 to $22 a month toward the support of their families.

The pay increase question lay in the lap of a restive Senate, smarting under charges it was being niggardly in not accepting immediately a House proposal to boost the salary of buck privates to $50, instead of the $42 it voted previously.

With Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) pressing for a showdown vote on Monday, influential senators who had sought more time for compromise efforts admitted privately they had little doubt that the higher figure would be adopted.

The House arranged meanwhile to take up on Monday a family allowance bill passed by the Senate yesterday under which wives of military men receiving $78 a month or less would be paid $50 for their support, the first child $12 and other children $10 each.

The Senate has approved cash government allowances for service men.

U.S. To Gas Japan If Japs Gas China

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared today that the government had received reports that Japan was using poisonous and noxious gases in her war against China.

He promised that the United States would retaliate if Japan persisted in this form of "inhuman warfare."

The reports that Japan on several occasions had resorted to gas warfare was described by the Chief Executive to his press conference as authoritative. He read a brief formal statement, which he said the State Department had prepared, making it unequivocally clear that the United States would consider the use of gas against China or any other United Nation as an act against the United States.

Just where or what manner this retribution might be carried out was, of course, a matter of continuing secrecy. But the American bombing attack on key Japanese cities and military objectives in April came readily to the minds of Mr. Roosevelt's hearers.

However, the United States apparently would stand ready to use gas warfare, on the basis of Mr. Roosevelt's statement, against Japan.

NEW NAVY PLANES TO BE SENT FROM COLUMBUS AIRPORT

COLUMBUS, June 5.—(AP)—Port Columbus—the Municipal Airport—again has become an aviation stepping stone.

Lt. Commander Earl C. Peterson announced today assignment of a Navy delivery unit to fly planes from navy-controlled Port Columbus to service units.

Curtiss-Wright Corporation's warplane factory here now is producing scout planes for the Navy and later will provide one of the world's best dive bombers.

Once planes are flight tested by Curtiss pilots they will be turned over to Navy aviators for delivery.

In addition to fliers, sufficient enlisted personnel to service and equip planes will be stationed at the airport, Commander Peterson said. Barracks for enlisted men will be erected in the near future.

Brewing Company Officials

TOLEDO, June 5.—(AP)—Four men armed with sawed-off shotguns crowded an automobile to a curb and robbed two Krantz Brewery Co. officials of $14,000 in cash today.

The employees, Ralph Morgan, office manager, and Casper Terpinski, equipment manager, were returning to the brewery from a branch bank. The hold-up occurred opposite a cemetery in the northeast section of Toledo.

Last December 17, messengers of the brewery were robbed of $21,000. Two Detroit men now are serving prison terms for that robbery.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—American and Japanese fleet units apparently were engaged today in one of the greatest battles of the Pacific as a result of the enemy's attempt yesterday to raid the strongly garrisoned United States outpost on Midway Island.

Commenting on the communique issued at Pearl Harbor early today by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, naval experts here emphasized that Nimitz had said "attacks on the enemy are continuing."

By ROGER D. GREENE

(By The Associated Press)
American battle forces were reported slashing anew at a powerful Japanese naval squadron off Midway Island in the Pacific today after beating off a dawn attack yesterday by battleships, aircraft carriers and cruisers with heavy losses for the enemy.

"Our attacks on the enemy are continuing," said a bulletin from the headquarters of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

Only minor damage and no casualties were inflicted on defenders of the tiny U. S. outpost, 1,149 miles northwest of Hawaii and 2,600 miles southeast of Tokyo, a communique said.

Turning the surprise attack into a staggering defeat, American fighters including Marines, sea and air forces were officially credited with damaging a Japanese battleship, an aircraft carrier and possibly other warships, as well as taking a heavy toll of planes.

Thousands of miles to the west, other naval actions marked the growing struggle for control of the seas.

Australia—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Allied planes guarding the vital lanes in which U. S. war supplies are flowing to Australia have sunk two more Japanese submarines and probably a third off the east coast of the "down under" continent.

The new successes made a total of six and possibly seven Japanese undersea raiders destroyed in the Australian theater in the last five days. Four enemy mid-gut submarines were sunk in an abortive raid on Sydney Harbor on Sunday.

Madagascar—Imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted that Japanese "special" (two-man) submarines had torpedoed and seriously damaged a 30,600-ton British battleship of the Queen Elizabeth Class and a 5,220-ton British light cruiser of the Arethusa class in a surprise dawn attack on Diego Suarez Naval Base, Madagascar.

Tokyo's claim met a swift denial by the British Admiralty.

War Run on Hitler's Schedule

Hostilities Got Off To False Start—Everyone in Germany Knew Russia Was To Be Invaded—But Few People Sensed Assault on Holland

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following story, Louis P. Lochner, chief of the former Wide World News Service Bureau in Berlin and now returned to New York, relates some of the dramatic developments experienced in covering the war.)

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)—For the foreign correspondent stationed in Germany during the present war up to America's entry into it, one of the most dramatic moments came on that night in August, 1939, exactly one week before hostilities with Poland opened, when suddenly all connection with the outside world was broken off.

For weeks and weeks we had been expecting "Der Tag."

Our Berlin office had sent Angus M. Thuermer to Gleiwitz, near the Silesian-Polish border, because we knew the staff headquarters for the army which was to march into Polish Upper Silesia to be located there.

We tried also to send Edwin A. Shanke into East Prussia to cover expected developments there, but he was refused permission to enter the area. Thuermer, incidentally, was allowed to remain only long enough to see the war start.

Then came that fateful night in August. Our long distance wires were in full operation.

Blast in Arsenal In Illinois Kills 21

Widow Does Bit to Beat Axis

JOLIET, Ill., June 5.—(AP)—An explosion rocked the mammoth Elwood arsenal, one of the largest in the nation, early today, leaving at least "21 known dead," Capt. David P. Tunstall, army press relations officer, announced.

More than a score were injured, and 28 others working in the shipping building escaped unhurt.

Three of the dead were identified, but Tunstall did not announce the names of any of the 40 casualties.

The blast, heard for a radius of 50 miles, destroyed the shipping building of group two of the Elwood Ordnance shell loading plant, which had been described by its director as the largest in the world.

Captain Tunstall said there was no hint of sabotage, but that its possibility would be investigated by a board of inquiry.

Tunstall emphasized that operations in the one group would be interrupted only a short time. The plant was designed with the view of preventing and minimizing explosions and was scattered over a large area.

The bombs that Gen. James Doolittle dropped on Tokyo possibly came from the Elwood loading plant and its companion plant, the Kankakee Ordnance TNT works, a government spokesman recently said.

The two plants were in production some time before Pearl Harbor.

Tunstall said the wrecked building, a brick and concrete one story structure about 75 feet high, was the largest in the world.

JERRY HAS JITTERS IN COMMANDO RAID

Germans Shoot Germans in Confusion, Raiders Say

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—Germans fired upon Germans during the British commando raid early yesterday against Boulogne-Le Touquet defenses, one Nazi patrol boat was sunk and another was grounded in flames and smoke columns marked areas of destruction, eyewitnesses said today.

"Jerry has got the jitters," commented a 23-year-old officer of the British special service troops.

Dropped from naval craft into the surf of the channel coast of occupied France where an Allied expeditionary force may land one day, the raiders were heavily armed.

The commandos were established on the beach and slashing through barbed wire entanglements before discovery touched off a pattern of fire and cross-fire confused Nazis gun crews, the British said. The raiders' anti-tank and Bren guns silenced one outpost that was not confused, a machine-gun nest at the edge of the dunes.

WORKERS BACK ON JOBS IN BAHAMAS AFTER RIOT

NASSAU, The Bahamas, June 5.—(AP)—Fifteen hundred workers were back on their jobs today following upon disorders early this week which caused the islands' governor, the Duke of Windsor, to hurry back from a Washington visit.

Eighty persons are under arrest on unproved charges. The Bahamas Federation of Labor denied responsibility for the disorders which marked a labor-employer dispute.

SPRINGFIELD NEGRO BEING HELD FOR THEFT

Wanted in Clark, Fayette And Ross Counties For Crimes

Some clever detective work on the part of Sheriff W. H. Icenhower has brought about the arrest of Clifford Kirksey, Springfield Negro who is wanted in Springfield, Fayette and Ross counties for a series of burglaries.

Arrest of Kirksey took place in Chillicothe, Thursday evening, after Sheriff Icenhower had learned the man's name and suspected that he might be found hanging about in Chillicothe, where he had friends.

Arrest of Kirksey followed the burglary of the Minta Rowland home on the Chillicothe road, late Tuesday afternoon, when the house was broken into while the family was absent, and a radio and other articles taken.

Soon after the burglary in Fayette County another farm home was entered along the same road just over the line in Ross County, and clothing, money, a radio and other property stolen.

Thus started an investigation by the Fayette and Ross county authorities, and as a result, Sheriff Icenhower unearthed clues that disclosed the name of the man, the fact that he had been there the day of the burglary, was known to a few persons in Washington C. H., and that he had also left some articles at a local garage.

Telephoning to Springfield for information regarding Kirksey, Sheriff Icenhower was informed that the man is badly wanted there on burglary charges.

Acting on information given to them by Icenhower, Chillicothe police rounded up Kirksey and placed him in the city prison there. It is expected he will be released to the officers here for prosecution on burglary and theft charges.

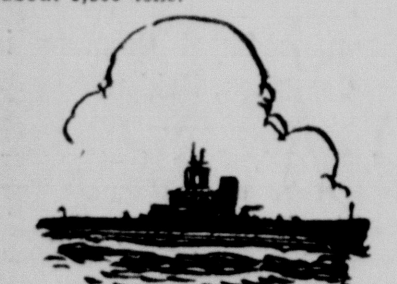

The radio stolen from the Rowland home was found hidden in some weeds along the Chillicothe Highway, where Kirksey said he had placed it. Other property was also recovered.

DOZEN OHIOANS ARRAIGNED FOR VIOLATING DRAFT LAW

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The modern submarine costs approximately $3,000,000. Torpedo warfare on the sea was highly developed in World War I and America has kept pace and is building the most efficient Subs in the world today. The newest submarines displace about 1,500 tons.

Scores of these under-sea craft are under construction in U. S. Navy Yards for service wherever they are needed. The voluntary purchase of War Bonds by Americans everywhere will insure our Navy parity with our enemies, the Japs and the Nazis. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day so we can have the "Subs" we need.

wide and 275 feet long, housed only the shipping facilities of one unit of the vast plant. Loading operations, in three other buildings in the vicinity, will not be interrupted, he said.

The $30,000,000 arsenal covers a 16,500-acre manufacturing area and has 85 miles of railroad tracks within 44 miles of fence.

The explosion broke windows in department stores in Kankakee, 22 miles away, and aroused residents of communities throughout northeastern Illinois.

A brother of one of the workmen in the demolished building said about 60 men were working in the structure when the blast came.

"The whole building went up," he said.

Captain Tunstall said the explosion would not halt operations at the arsenal, which employs more than 8,000 on three shifts.

MAKES WATER INTO GASLESS GAS

Anthony Morch

Is this what the motoring world has been waiting for? Anthony Morch at the New York Inventors' exposition demonstrates how easily he converts water into gas. The bottle he is holding contains water and sodium. Electricity, he says, generates hydrogen. At a cost of only five cents a gallon the gasless gas is said to have twice the energy of ordinary gasoline. And, says Morch, it is a cinch to convert ordinary automobile engines so they can use the gas.

ice men's dependents much more liberal than those voted in the first World War and slightly above rates carried in a bill now pending in the house. If finally enacted, here's how it would work:

Q—Who benefits?

A—Dependents of men of the four lowest grades in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard, or those whose base pay is $78 a month or less.

Q—Of what would an allowance consist?

A—Of monthly deductions from the man's pay plus government contributions.

Q—How are dependents defined?

A—There are two classes, A and B. Class A includes wives, children, and former wives who have not remarried and to whom alimony has been decreed and is still payable. Class B includes parents, grandparents, grandchildren, brothers, and sisters.

Q—What would be the pay deductions and government contributions?

To Class A Dependents:

	Govt. Contrib.	Pay Deduction	Total
Wife, if no child	$28	$22	$50
Wife with 1 child	40	22	62
Wife with 2 children	50	22	72

To Class B if there is no Class A dependent:

1 parent	15	22	37
2 parents	25	22	47
1 parent and 1 sister	20	22	42

To Class B if there is also a Class A dependent:

1 parent	15	5	20
2 parents	25	5	30
1 parent and 1 sister	20	5	25
1 parent and 2 sisters	25	5	30

Q—How would allowances be applied for?

A—Those payable to Class A dependents would be approved on application of the enlisted man, the dependents, or any other person on behalf of such dependents. Those payable to Class B would be on application of the enlisted man, except in cases where it would be impracticable for him to do so, when the department concerned would be authorized to permit applications to be made by or on behalf of such dependents.

Family allowances payable to Class B dependents could be ended at any time by the enlisted man. The government contribution to Class B dependents would be limited to $50 a month.

holding the breach, while German dive bombers pounded furiously at British positions blocking Rommel's advance toward Egypt.

AIR WARFARE—RAF bombers omitted attacks on Germany overnight for the first time this month, centering their blows instead on the channel "invasion" port of Dieppe, France, and air-dromes in Nazi-occupied Holland.

Before sunrise, RAF fighter squadrons carried on the offensive with attacks along the French coast. Explosions rumbled across the channel for two hours.

RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN—Soviet headquarters reported that Russian artillery had smashed a German attempt to drive a wedge into Red army lines on the Bryansk front, 210 miles southwest of Moscow, throwing the invaders back with 280 killed.

The long battle line as a whole appeared quiet.

Hitler's field headquarters said German troops gained ground in attacks on the Ukraine, Moscow and Leningrad fronts, but these were apparently only minor actions.

A Rome broadcast, quoting German military quarters, said Russian sea-borne forces attempted a landing on the north shore of the Sea of Azov in the Ukraine behind the lines of German-held Taganrog. The broadcast said the Russians, attacking in three motorized barges, were driven off.

WAR IN CHINA—Japan is developing a knock-out blow against China designed to end the Chinese war at any cost and simultaneously guarantee her overland communications with occupied French Indo-China, Thailand, Burma and Malaya, high Chinese quarters declared today.

The Japanese concern over the land communications with occupied territories in Asia was said to be heightened by the possibility that the Allies might reach the stage where they could threaten seriously Japan's sea routes.

INDIA—British military quarters reported that Japanese troops advancing in a threatening move toward India had reached Homa-in in Burma, only 45 miles from the Indian frontier.

Homa-in is on the Chindwin River, 200 miles northwest of Mandalay.

A spokesman said the Japanese were continuing to rush troops up the Chindwin River despite furious assault by RAF warplanes.

It was not immediately clear whether the Japanese were planning an imminent invasion of India or merely strengthening their grip on conquered Burma against a possible British counter-offensive, but it was known that the British have taken strong precautionary measures against

AUDITOR BAUGHN IS CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

Friends Prevail on Him To Serve County Here Rather Than in Legislature

County Auditor Roy Baughn has announced that he will be a candidate for re-nomination on the Democratic ticket, and if re-nominated, for reelection to his present official position as county auditor at the general election next November.

For some time, Baughn states, he has been giving consideration to the matter of which office he will seek this fall. He had been thinking seriously of becoming a candidate for representative to the Ohio General Assembly but after conference with friends he has made his decision to seek election as county auditor.

Baughn, who owns, helps operate and lives upon a farm in Paint Township, according to statements by his friends, is especially qualified to continue in office as county auditor and will be considered a strong candidate for the office. Supporters of Baughn assert that his personal popularity as well as his experience and efficiency are important factors in making him a desirable candidate to continue the official duties he has been carrying on.

The only other official position Baughn has held was membership on the Bloomington Board of Education, although he has been very active in many enterprises over the county.

MERCHANDISING

The part played by retail merchandising in our national life has changed tremendously.

The merchant's job used to be relatively simple. He worked to reduce his overhead expense, to lower his prices, to improve his service and to otherwise contribute to a steadily rising standard of living for all the people. Merchandising was a competitive enterprise, and each store, whether chain or independent, bid for business on the basis of merit.

Today merchandising still works to better service and cut costs. But, on top of that, it must grapple with a long list of problems which were unknown a year or two ago. Prices have been frozen. Priorities have denuded the civilian market of goods which once were almost as common as air. And the list of shortages and scarcities grows even longer.

Luckily for the public, merchandising hasn't simply thrown its hands in the air and given up. Instead, it has regarded each new problem as a new opportunity for public service and acted accordingly. Merchandising groups are working with manufacturers in developing suitable substitutes for metals, and other scarce commodities, and very great progress is being made. In the food field, merchants are effectively backing the National Nutrition Program, which is designed to show housewives how to purchase and prepare meals which will give the family needed vitamins at reasonable cost. In all fields, merchants are taking every practical step to help the people adjust themselves to total-war conditions. This is true of both the chain and independent stores—each do their full part.

Retail merchandising was among the first industries to set aggressively to work to meet new and unprecedented problems. It is doing a big and vital job for us all.

AUTO STINGINESS

A radio broadcaster tells sadly standing on a street corner in the morning a long time waiting for a bus to take him down to his office. Meanwhile there was an endless string of private automobiles passing by, most of them carrying nobody but the driver.

This may be one of the facts that will make Washington authorities hard boiled when they come to cracking down on the unnecessary use of private cars. Much the same situation exists in probably every big city in America, and in many of the little ones. It shows one of the dark sides of automobile transportation. The auto tends to make people selfish and indifferent. To every generous-minded and neighbor-loving motorist who gladly shares the ride with people less blest than himself, there are several who roll along in proud and stingy solitude.

This is the opposite of the pioneer

Hat Styles Befuddle Everybody

CHESINGTON, England.—(P)—The elephant was hungry and the little old lady's straw bonnet looked like food, so he tried to eat it. But that wasn't all—

When the elephant grabbed the bonnet in his trunk he also lifted away the little old lady's wig. She stood there, bald and blushing, until a clown of the Chessington Circus provided another hat and wig. And worse still, the elephant found neither hat nor wig to his liking. He tossed them on the circus floor.

Hints on Etiquette

It is rude to emphasize your remarks by a pointed finger or by tapping the shoulder of your listener. Most persons are irritated, too, by nudges when you wish to call their attention to something. Speak quietly to them instead.

Today's Horoscope

If your birthday is today you are rash and impulsive, easily aroused to joy or anger. You work enthusiastically but without foresight or careful planning. You look for the easy way. You are kind and sympathetic, but could be more tactful. In the next year a family event brings pleasure and gain, but a business disappointment is likely. Seek new friends from your employer. Domestic affairs are propitious. A child born on this date will be somewhat inclined to anticipate trouble and to worry unduly, especially over business matters. Much sympathy and good-nature will be forthcoming, however.

HEART

In moderation, it develops a powerful heart is not the impotent, erratic organ we had been led to believe. The draft system has discovered that a lot of young men rejected for cardiac disorders merely were nervous and excited.

Out of the first two million examined, a hundred thousand—one out of 20—were rejected for cardiovascular deficiencies or, if you please, bad hearts. Analysis shows that only one out of three had any real pathological cardiac flow. With the rest, the heart merely wasn't acting quite as the doctors thought it should. Often re-examined under different circumstances showed that there was no real trouble.

Medical Progress in the Study of Mumps

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MUMPS IS A disease of late winter and early spring. It is also a disease of childhood, 88 per cent of cases involving children less than 15 years of age. One attack

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

usually affords permanent immunity, but every general practitioner can cite cases of second and even third attacks.

Nine-tenths of city residents above the age of 16 have had mumps, whereas in scattered farm communities, remote from the city, only about 30 per cent of the entire population have had mumps. In some regions only one young adult out of 10 has had it. This explains why pupil nurses and military recruits are apt to come down with the disease within the first three months of their training. Thus mumps becomes a military problem and concerns us in that respect.

Recent research has confirmed the finding of Johnson and Goodpasture in 1934 that mumps is a virus disease. The virus exists in the saliva during the first 48 hours of the disease and can be transferred to monkeys. It has also been transferred to humans when experimental volunteers allowed the virus to be sprayed into their mouths.

These studies in the consideration of mumps, however, have not advanced us in discovering a method of treatment nor has it really helped very much in prevention. Although prevention of mumps by the use of convalescent serum after exposure is of established value. The protection afforded lasts only about 14 days and is therefore of value in preventing an epidemic but is of little value once an epidemic is under way.

Mumps affects the salivary glands, and the swelling of the face is due to inflammation of the parotid and sub-maxillary glands. On the whole it is a mild disease in spite of some complications which are troublesome, but its importance is derived from its severity but from the amount of disability that it causes.

In World War I mumps stood third among the diseases in time lost in the hospital, ranking next to venereal disease and influenza. Undoubtedly with the surge of research work on the virus diseases that is going on now, methods of prevention and cure are likely to be found which will mean an increase in the efficiency of the Army personnel.

One of the reasons why mumps causes so much time to be lost is on account of the long incubation period and the long period of quarantine which the medical corps of the Army and Navy insist upon. The incubation period—the time between exposure to the disease and the time when the symptoms appear—is usually at least two weeks. The quarantine period—the time during which an individual is capable of spreading the disease even after the symptoms have subsided—is from six weeks to two months. This quarantine period is not usually insisted upon in civil life, but it always was in my day in Army hospitals and meant, of course, a tremendous loss of time.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

IT WAS war, as Marg had said it would be, after being the first to hear the grim news of the attack on Pearl Harbor. Her first thoughts, of course, had been for Captain Mercer, although she realized it would be weeks probably before she would know whether or not he was alive. No news would be good news.

Tibby, too, had her own personal reaction, which she realized was a personal and, therefore, selfish one. Even in the face of such a big issue, such a grave issue as war, each of us—especially if that person is a woman—faces it from the personal viewpoint, wondering if her loved one, son, husband or sweetheart will have to be among those to make the great sacrifice.

Tibby's reaction was not this. She was concerned, of course, for all those dear to her. Tommy, Marg's John, Wayne, the boys back home. But her first thought, as to how this war would affect her personally was that now Wayne could not insist upon an immediate marriage. She knew that was a selfish thought, almost a shameful one, but it was one she could not suppress or deny. It was one she knew she ought to examine and analyze, for that was not the sort of thought she should have had.

Most girls would have reacted exactly the other way. They would have thought of marriage as soon as possible, before their sweethearts could be sent away. Most girls would have thought that they must snatch happiness, brief happiness of which Marg had spoken, even more quickly than before, since it might indeed be short lived.

And here was Tibby thinking, almost with relief, that the war would be a means of postponement of her wedding. It must be relief, she felt. If so, she ought to analyze her emotions still further. She thought she loved Wayne enough to marry him, but if she did not love him enough to want to marry him before he might have to go to war, then maybe she did not love him at all.

There she was, back in the same old tangle, only knotted in worse confusion. It was a tangle that war should have unraveled, rather than tying the threads tighter. It should have clarified her emotions, instead of clouding them into deeper perplexities. The irony of it all was that Wayne took exactly the opposite view, the expected, proper view that a fiancée should take. He

This week the play was scheduled to close after a run of 55 performances, which would have left it in the class of a failure for it is generally agreed that to be classed as a hit a play must run on Broadway for about 100 performances. Now, with Steinbeck cutting his royalties in half, the play is to continue its run on Broadway and then will be taken on tour.

Of course, Steinbeck is considerably consoled about the slashing of his royalties in that motion picture rights for this story about the Nazi invasion of Norway already has been sold for the record price of $300,000. The nearest figure to that were the rights of "Lady in the Dark" and $275,000 for "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Too, Steinbeck's novel, from which he adapted the play, has sold a half million copies.

So although this newest play of his has not won the critical and box office success that was achieved by his precious "Of Mice and Men," at least it is continuing to run and add to his already considerable financial rewards.

Steinbeck, who has been around Broadway lately and taking extreme measures to avoid the limelight, is as much a recluse to theater celebrities as is Eugene O'Neill. When he came east he boarded a freighter in Los Angeles and landed at Philadelphia. He was immediately invited to a dinner given in honor of Thomas Mann, the German intellectual, but he had brought so little luggage with him that he had to borrow a suit of evening clothes. Then he grew bored with the speeches and wandered out of the banquet hall to enjoy a highball by himself.

Curiously Steinbeck has nev-phoned Tibby the day that war was officially declared to tell her that that meant he would have to be out of town again for a short while. He said that he would be back by the following week-end, if possible, the week-end when he had planned to present her to his family. He said, before he rang off, "Of course, my dear, you realize that this means that we must be married just as soon as possible. Therefore, it is doubly important that I get everything arranged."

Tibby did not remember, after what she had said to him, that perhaps Wayne had hung up before she could say anything. He had been calling from his office and had been in a terrible rush. She did wish he did not do things with such lightning velocity. No wonder they took your breath, left you shaking all over.

For Tibby found she actually was shaking after she had hung up. Of course she was all unstrung. Tommy HAD said such dreadful things to her, things she had known he would say. He had declared she was marrying a man entirely too old for her—and that he was surprised she would marry a man for his money. Tommy had said he could not think of any other reason than money for Tibby's marriage to Wayne.

Tibby should have given him some, but she had been much too hurt and angry. She had just sailed out of the room, without giving him any answer. She had hoped that would be much more effective than any mere words, but afterward she had wondered. She thought of all she should have said, the way one always can when it is too late to say them.

Then there had been the war, which was a shock, too—although now people were saying we should have been prepared for it.

Then to have Wayne top it all off by saying that they must, of course, be married as soon as possible. Well, no wonder she felt shaky and unstrung. She was so on feeling that way, for Tibby found she could not pull herself together. She had had a wild impulse to run away when Wayne had sent her to come to his office. She still felt as if she would like to run, and keep on running and running.

For one thing, she had too much time. Now that she had resigned her position as stewardess, she had nothing to do all day long. She did not have to get up early in the morning, since there was nothing to get up for. She did not have to hurry or worry or do a thing except try to do nothing. That, Tibby found, is the hardest thing there is to do.

Maybe if Wayne had not had to go away immediately things might have been different, but having done nothing all day long, there was nothing else to do when evening came. All Tibby could do was wait until time to go to bed, knowing she would not go to sleep when she got there. There was no more sense in going to bed and lying sleepless than in getting up.

She had done her shopping. She had bought the necessary and proper things for the week-end in Westchester, although she still hoped that she would not have to wear them to meet Wayne's family. She had worn the one dress, a very simple black affair that had cost entirely too much and so must be all right, the night she had had her last quarrel with Tommy. She had had the pearl ring fixed, too. She was wearing it, although it felt exactly as she had known it would, heavy and out of place on her stubby, brown finger.

She was sitting at home like a little lady. Waiting.

If there was anything worse than that, Tibby decided she had never tried it. After almost a whole long, endless, tiresome week of it she decided she simply could not go on with it another split second. She would simply have to do SOMETHING. She would run away, or scream, or have a nice quiet breakdown.

Then she thought of what she could do, the one sane thing that would help. She would go out to the field and take up the silver ship. Wayne had said she could take it up whenever she wished. True, he had said he would prefer to be with her—or at least to know she was going up in it. But he was not here to know, or to go along. Besides, that was what she wanted, what she HAD to have, to be alone, high up in the heavens, above the clouds, above all the things that belonged on the ground—all human troubles and sorrows.

During the first few days after the declaration of war, all privately owned ships had been grounded. Maybe, though, as Marg had predicted, Tibby would be able to use her silver ship for her country's civilian defense. Already such units were being discussed and organized. In that event she must keep up her hours, as required for a pilot's license. She would go out to the field, anyway, even if she did not fly today. She did not know, in deciding thus, that she was helping to change that set pattern.

'The Moon Is Down' Gives Author a Lift

By MARK BARRON

(Wide World News Service)

NEW YORK, June 3.—The fate of the new John Steinbeck drama, "The Moon Is Down," is bounding up and down with almost as many climaxes as those experienced by the author in his own meteoric career.

This week the play was scheduled to close after a run of 55 performances, which would have left it in the class of a failure for it is generally agreed that to be classed as a hit a play must run on Broadway for about 100 performances. Now, with Steinbeck cutting his royalties in half, the play is to continue its run on Broadway and then will be taken on tour.

Of course, Steinbeck is considerably consoled about the slashing of his royalties in that motion picture rights for this story about the Nazi invasion of Norway already has been sold for the record price of $300,000. The nearest figure to that were the rights of "Lady in the Dark" and $275,000 for "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Too, Steinbeck's novel, from which he adapted the play, has sold a half million copies.

So although this newest play of his has not won the critical and box office success that was achieved by his precious "Of Mice and Men," at least it is continuing to run and add to his already considerable financial rewards.

Steinbeck, who has been around Broadway lately and taking extreme measures to avoid the limelight, is as much a recluse to theater celebrities as is Eugene O'Neill. When he came east he boarded a freighter in Los Angeles and landed at Philadelphia. He was immediately invited to a dinner given in honor of Thomas Mann, the German intellectual, but he had brought so little luggage with him that he had to borrow a suit of evening clothes. Then he grew bored with the speeches and wandered out of the banquet hall to enjoy a highball by himself.

Curiously Steinbeck has never been one to conform to an existing order as does the Norwegian mayor in his "The Moon Is Down." When the Nazi conquerors capture his town the mayor attempts to cooperate with them in order to save the lives and lessen the suffering of his townspeople.

For instance, when Steinbeck was in Leland Stanford University in 1925 he would not follow the regular line of courses, preferring to study at random the subjects he liked whether such a plan would win him a degree or not. He varied his courses so much that he was given credit for only half of the 180 units necessary for a diploma. He did not take the play-writing course because the professor did not consider him to have any promise of success in the theater. That savant must have blushed with mortification when Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" won the Drama Critics Circle prize for 1937-38.

Steinbeck knows well the people of small towns and the privacy they enjoy, such little towns as the nameless Norwegian village he pictures in "The Moon Is Down." It is this liking for such towns that makes him, when he comes to Broadway, complete his business in the theatrical belt as soon as possible and then rush to the quiet of a Connecticut village where he remains until his stage producers summon him for consultation.

The cast of "The Moon Is Down," headed by Otto Kruger and Ralph Morgan, are as anxious as the producers to keep this story of a free people struggling against their ruthless conquerors running. So, they too have followed Steinbeck's example and cut their salaries.

ALL-OUT JAP ASSAULT ON ALASKA CAN BE EXPECTED

FIRST ATTACKS TO SAVE FACE AND OPEN GATE

American Bases on Islands of Aleutian Chain Stand As Threat to Japan

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World News Service)

Key to the significance of the Japanese attack on our naval and air base at Dutch Harbor, up among the fog-shrouded and inhospitable Aleutians off the Alaska Peninsula, lies in the lack of strength employed in the second raid and the small amount of damage done in the first.

The first raid with four bombers, protected by fighter planes, was a mild affair. Since the subsequent flight was of non-bombing variety, the Japs obviously weren't attempting a major operation but likely were staging a nuisance raid for its propaganda value and its possible effect on American nerves. It may have been a face-saving reprisal for our recent devastating raid over Japan.

In any event, Seattle gives us the good news from Rear Admiral Freeman, commander of the 13th Naval District at Seattle, that Dutch Harbor wasn't taken by surprise and was prepared to meet the attack.

Whether or not the present Jap attack was a minor operation, it may be expected that sooner or later they will make an all-out drive against these defenses. The position was summed up in Washington by Anthony J. Dimond, Alaskan delegate to Congress, like this:

"Of course, it shows good sense and judgment on their part if they can bust up what we are doing can bust up what we are doing. They believe their greatest danger lies in the approach to their shores which we are going to make from Alaska."

The danger of attack from this region isn't the only reason the Japs are anxious to deliver a knockout blow to Dutch Harbor. They undoubtedly harbor ambitions to take over this base and establish themselves in the Aleutians as a preliminary to further attacks on Alaska and the rest of the western coast of North America.

The Japs may have hoped this would result in the American authorities diverting defensive forces from the west coast to Alaskan waters, thus giving Nippon a chance to stage against our west coast one of the raids of which Secretary of War Stimson warned us the other day. However, it may be said that this is rather a naive hope, since we are scarcely likely to be tracked that way.

The Nipponese raiders must have been operating from an aircraft carrier. Their nearest base is too far away to permit of such a raid.

The only surprising thing about the raid is that the enemy should have struck with such light forces at first, thereby putting Dutch Harbor even more on the alert. One would have expected the Japs to have made their initial blow a hard one.

Mrs. Junkins Is Hostess to Loyal Daughters Class

Mrs. Eugene Junkins was hostess to the Loyal Daughters Class of McNair Church on Tuesday evening for the regular business meeting. Mrs. Charles Keaton conducted the business meeting, and was also in charge of the devotionals. At the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Florine Schults was introduced as a new member of the class. Mrs. Ray Beatty and Mrs. Harry Fichtorn were appointed captains for the Membership Contest which is to begin immediately. They chose the class colors—orchid and wood violet—to designate the respective teams. Members of the class will be advised by the secretary on Sunday morning as to the team each is to represent. This contest will close at the August meeting.

During the social hour each member wrote a letter to Mrs. Emory Lucas, a class member, who has been a patient at the Springfield City Hospital. She now is at the home of her sister, Mrs. Vernon Wingert, at Garden Acres, Springfield. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Verl Shasteen for the serving of refreshments.

Miss Beverly Junkins, Miss Coleen Ann Bennett, Miss Barbara Jean Junkins and Mrs. Ernest Evans were guests for the evening.

Mrs. Avann Complimented

In compliment to Mrs. Orpha Cheney Avann, who is visiting here from Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. David S. Craig entertained with a delightful affair Wednesday evening.

The guests gathered around the charcoal grill that had been placed in the large and lovely yard of the home, where steaks sizzled for the supper. Numerous other good dishes that go with such a supper were served, and the guests were seated in the yard, so cool and refreshing with its many shade trees.

The pleasures and hospitalities for which Mr. and Mrs. Craig are known, were gracefully extended, making it a most enjoyable evening.

Included with the honor guest were Miss Edith Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harper, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Coffman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Madison Willis, and Mr. Thomas Craig.

Tawanka Girls

The Tawanka Group of Campfire Girls were delightfully entertained by Miss Carolyn Lou Bidwell, Thursday afternoon, when she invited them to her home for their weekly meeting.

The president, Betty Rose Harsha, presided over the business session, during which plans were discussed about going to Camp Wyandotte the latter part of June.

A hike and breakfast is planned for the next meeting, with the girls to assemble at 7 A. M. at their leader's, Mrs. John Forsythe, home.

Cooling refreshments of lemonade and other good things appealing to youthful appetites were served by the pretty young hostess.

Visitors Honored with Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. George Haines entertained with a dinner Wednesday, in honor of their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Day, of Benton Harbor, Mich.

Included as guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haines, Mr. Emmett Haines and Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Barney.

Sweet Stuff

Barbara Stanwyck doesn't take sugar in her coffee but occasionally she uses a little for the sake of her peaches-and-cream complexion. After cleansing her face with her favorite toilet soap, she adds another soaping, getting it into a good lather. To this, she rubs in a teaspoonful of sugar, which makes it light and fluffy. After ten minutes she washes it off with cold water.

King Nikita, Montenegro, who died in 1921, ruled over a kingdom of at least 150,000 men over 35 years of age. It was claimed that the king knew the name, age and occupation of each.

Pink Denims

There's something boyish about the sawed-off denim slacks—modern version of shorts. Yet Brenda Marshall is the last degree of femininity in her new pink denims which she wears with a pink cotton shirt striped in black and a short-sleeved, black denim bolero.

WAR RUN ON SCHEDULE TO SUIT HITLER'S WHIMS, CORRESPONDENT SAYS

rope. The telephone operators invariably answered: "There is a temporary disturbance in the line."

Then came a lucky break: Across the street from us in the offices of the French Havas news agency the direct wire to Paris had not been cut.

Our Havas colleagues permitted us to file our copy into Paris. To the amazement of the Germans, America next morning had a full story of developments in the war that didn't come off as scheduled.

By the time the war really started a week later a control system was officially set up, amounting to a sort of honor system of self-censorship, under which we were able to get out news until the day of our arrest and internment December 11, 1941.

The night of May 9, 1940, will also be remembered. It was the night before Hitler's armies inundated Holland and Belgium.

One of the strange things about the war against Holland and Belgium was practically every foreign correspondent in Germany knew it was coming, yet very few Germans had any inkling of it.

Dramatic, too, were the incidents attendant upon Hitler's march into Soviet Russia June 22. It seems to me as though virtually everybody I encountered knew the war was coming—that is, everybody except the Russian correspondents accredited to Berlin, and even they may have been pretending.

Late in May one of my informants whose information had always proved true came to tell me that at 3 A. M. on the fourth Sunday in June Hitler would march into Russia. I checked with "our American military attaches, who said all reports indicated that tremendous army concentrations were in progress on the German-Russian front.

Evidence kept piling in on our office that the informant was right, although no other source was so precise as to date and even hour.

From time to time I contacted my Russian colleagues. They insisted I was all wrong, that relations with Germany were quite normal, and that Soviet Russia was supplying all the raw materials that Germany asked for. They stuck to this version, for one reason or another, to the end, although gradually even the man on the street began to talk of the imminent war with Russia.

On June 21 I decided to let my car stand before my house that night, because undoubtedly the foreign office would summon the correspondents to a press conference in the wee hours of the morning as they had done in the case of Poland, Denmark and Norway, Holland and Belgium, and Yugoslavia and Greece.

At 3:20 A. M. the foreign office rang up to say that at 5 A. M. there would be an important press conference conducted by the foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, himself.

The attack had begun.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

It's not a pleasant picture to contemplate, but War calls for "blood and sweat and tears." And the Army Medical Corps, with its efficient nurses and its volunteer Red Cross "Angels of Mercy," needs thousands of surgical beds for field and base hospitals on every front.

These beds cost approximately $22 each. They are the latest thing in modern hospital beds, with elevating springs. In some instances surgical cots are used in temporary field hospitals and there is a folding bed which may be used in ambulances. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps can buy many of these beds for the Army. You'll sleep better if you know our boys have every hospital comfort. Buy War Bonds every pay day. Invest ten percent of your income.

NEW YORK, June 5.—With Jimmy Foxx gone, Joe Cronin figures on himself as the Red Sox regular first baseman. Double Win By Red Birds For Starter

(By the Associated Press)

The long overdue Columbus Red Birds finally have started to make their hits count, signaling the rest of the American Association that they are heading toward the form that carried them to the championship last year. Their twin killing from Milwaukee last night should provide a big boost.

The blow to the Brewers, by scores of 3-2 and a tremendous 14-4, allowed Kansas City to climb two games ahead in the leadership. The Blues captured their seventh straight win and their fifth in the series with Toledo by clipping the Mud Hens, 4-2.

St. Paul took its ninth straight defeat as Indianapolis swept a doubleheader, 4-3 and 5-2. Louisville and Minneapolis split a double bill for the third straight night, the Millers taking the first 2-1 and dropping the 12-inning second, 6-5.

Trap Guns Bang As Ohio Tourney Gets Under Way

COLUMBUS, June 5.—(P)—

Two hundred sharpshooters began firing today for $2,100 in prizes at the 56th annual Ohio State championship trapshoot.

The state's ace clay target smasher, Joe Heistand, Hillsboro farmer who won the 1941 doubles title, was not entered. Heistand, who holds the world's long run record of 1179 at 16 yards, now is teaching America's airmen how to hit moving targets.

Mark Hootman of Hicksville, winner of the Grand American Handicap championship in 1913, is defending the state handicap laurels he won last year. The doubles event of 50 pairs of targets was the other opening day event.

Class championships are up tomorrow and singles Sunday. Also on Sunday's program are the women's and junior championships.

The five high scorers in the singles will represent Ohio in the state team race of the Grand American at Vandalia in August.

RUNS BATTED IN RECORD BROKEN SIMPLY BY OTT

Cardinals Tighten Hold on Second Place as They Trounce Braves

By JUDSON BAILEY

(By The Associated Press)

Mel Ott is likely to be remembered in baseball as the quietest record breaker on record.

Nobody gives it much thought any more, but every time the 33-year-old outfield-manager of the New York Giants hits a home run or draws a base on balls he breaks the all-time National League Record—which he himself holds.

Yesterday he broke another—the runs batted in mark of 1,582 that Rogers Hornsby took 23 years to set—and Ott performed the deed in such a muffled way that it would not even have been noticed if people hadn't been waiting and watching for the last week. He didn't even get a hit.

Not Even a Hit

With Bill Werber on third base in the third inning of a game at Chicago with the Cubs, Ott lofted a long fly to right and Werber scampered home with the run that brought Ott the record in his 17th season. The Giants won 4 to 3.

Every time Ott drives in a run now he will set a record and fans will think no more of it than they do his bases on balls and home run marks—unless he remains active long enough to get close to the record for both major leagues, 2,209 set by Babe Ruth during 22 years in the American League.

The St. Louis Cardinals strengthened their hold on second place in the only other National League encounter by beating the Boston Braves 6-2.

Yankees Win Again

In the American League the New York Yankees sent Edgar Smith, the unlucky southpaw, staggering to his ninth straight defeat with 8-2 verdict over the Chicago White Sox. Joe Gordon and Buddy Hassett extended their hitting streaks to 20 and 15 games respectively.

Cleveland rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to beat the Boston Red Sox 4-2 for Jim Bagby's first victory since May 17. It was his seventh of the season, however, and the Indians' second straight at Boston.

The Detroit Tigers pushed across seven runs in the last two innings to beat the Philadelphia Athletics 8-7 and the surging St. Louis Browns bettered the Washington Senators 7-2.

Golfers Gathering For Hale America

CINCINNATI, June 5.—(P)—

Top golfers from five states meet tomorrow in the opening round of a sectional Hale America Tournament at Kenwood Country Club.

Eight places in the June 18-21 finals at Chicago will be sought by 73 qualifiers headed by Byron Nelson of Toledo, exempt from preliminaries as former National Open and P.G. A. title holder.

Eighteen holes of medal play are scheduled for tomorrow and 36 Sunday with golfers from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania competing.

Bombs-for-MacArthur Fund Gets Fight Card Support

By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND, June 5.—(P)—Speaking of all-star fight cards, the Cleveland News today nearly finished the business of lining up a wham-doodler for its bomb-for-MacArthur fund.

Picking a main event from the four ten-rounders already arranged for Cleveland Stadium Tuesday, June 23, appears even more difficult than bagging a new set of white sidewall tires.

What Will War Do To Football Gate? Answer Is a Guess

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, June 5.—(P)—What's the war going to do to football attendance next fall?

Henry D. (Hen) Taylor, Ohio State University's director of ticket sales for the last score of years, who probably knows more about fan-reaction than anyone else in the Buckeye realm, answered that today, and his answer was:

"I don't know!"

Through business booms and depressions, through good seasons and poor, Taylor has seen thousands pour through the stadium turnstiles, but tire rationing and possible gasoline limitation are new problems to him. "If you can tell me how America will be faring in the war on Oct. 1, I'll tell you how the football attendance will compare with former years," Taylor said. "If we are winning, or holding our own in good shape on the battle fronts, attendance will stay up—but if things are going against us the least bit, it's hard to tell what will happen to our gate receipts."

Taylor predicted, however, that the 10-game attendance at Ohio State's games this fall would approximate the eight-game attendance of 1941, when 488,471 saw the Bucks in action—breaking all records by 88,788.

"Tire and gasoline rationing probably will cut deeply into the attendance by out-of-towners," he said, "but some of that slack will be taken up by defense workers having more money to spend for sports. The Illinois-Ohio game, shifted to Cleveland from Champaign, will produce more fans, that it would have drawn in Illinois, while the two service games, against Fort Knox and Iowa Air Cadets, will hike the total considerably."

No matter how high the attendance soars, Ohio State will not show a profit next fall, for all funds over operating expenses will go to the Army-Navy relief work. "It may be we will show a loss for the season," Taylor said, "for our board is definitely in favor of donating 10 percent of our gross receipts to the relief fund. That probably would run between $25,000 and $30,000. Add that to the $40,000 to $50,000 we pay in state and federal admission taxes, and Ohio State will make a pretty fair contribution through football alone."

Season ticket sales, with the books costing $15 for seven home games, instead of $11.50 for five contests as in the past, are about 50 percent of last year's on comparative dates, Taylor said. The ban against use of high school buses for all trips except to and from classes probably will slash attendance of the scholastic customers far under the 45,000 who were guests at two games last fall.

While the Illinois-Ohio game at Cleveland may draw a big gate, Taylor said he expected it to cut materially into the attendance of games in the Buckeye Stadium.

"It's possible," he said, "that fans in northeastern Ohio will attend only one Ohio State game, due to the gasoline and tire restrictions, and they'll probably pick the one closest to them—the contest in the Cleveland Stadium."

Taylor said the University had about $25,000 in new athletic equipment on hand—enough to run practically all sports for two or three years—but that some of next season's baseball, track and other minor sports engagements might have to be called off because of transportation problems.

"If that's the case, we'll save money," he declared, "for we seldom break even on those jaunts."

"We have trimmed our budget to the bone for next year, hoping to hand over as much as possible to the relief funds. We are prepared for one of our worst financial seasons, but are hoping for one of the best."

JAP ATTACK ON MIDWAY ISLAND BEATEN OFF WITH HEAVY LOSS TO ENEMY

which said Japanese submarines attacked the British-occupied base on May 30 but added: "There were no casualties in His Majesty's ships."

British sea-borne forces captured the French colonial base, off the southeast coast of Africa, on May 7.

As the Far Pacific conflict surged toward the end of its sixth month, Washington naval experts viewed the Japanese attack on Midway and the "feeler" raids on Dutch Harbor, Alaska, as foreshadowing more violent enemy action on the American side of the Pacific.

These quarters said Japan now was apparently bent on weakening America's rising offensive power in the Pacific—a threat to Japan's own island empire as well as to her far-flung invasion armies—and possibly hoped to bring the war within striking distance of the Pacific Coast.

Blows at Midway and Alaska might be intended to clear the way for a new attack on Pearl Harbor, the western U. S. coast and the Panama Canal.

Yesterday's attack on Midway was the sixth on the strategic little island, the last U. S. outpost in the Pacific northwest of Hawaii since Wake and Guam fell to the enemy.

Admiral Nimitz said that the island was "heavily raided" by Japanese carrier-based planes at 6:35 A. M. (Midway Time) and that the enemy carriers were accompanied by battleships and cruisers.

"The attack was repulsed by local defenders in which all armed services are represented," a communiqué said.

"One battleship and one carrier definitely were damaged and other vessels are believed to have been hit."

The Midway and Dutch Harbor assaults, however, were viewed as evidence of a carefully conceived plan which may have any one of these ultimate actions in view:

1. An effort, preliminary to an attack on Russia, to destroy or conquer Alaskan bases and thereby cut a route over which aerial reinforcements might be moved to the Soviet armies in Siberia.

2. Clear the way for a new and powerful attack on Pearl Harbor, or even the western U. S. Coast and Panama, by trying to knock out aerial reconnaissance and interception forces.

3. A new attempt to cut U. S. supply lines into the southwest Pacific by forceful attacks on the guardian islands south of Hawaii, after diverting American forces into the North Pacific.

4. A knockout try against the bases from which Japan may be attacked.

The relation of Midway and Dutch Harbor to any projected attacks anywhere on the North American continent arises from the fact that they flank the vast expanse of ocean over which an assaulting fleet would almost certainly move. Planes operating south of Dutch Harbor and north of Midway should be able to keep a fairly good watch over the 1,653-mile stretch of water between those two points.

Even if an attack in force were made against Alaska the Japanese fleet units participating undoubtedly would take a roundabout course to their objective so that an effort to prevent reconnaissance from Midway would be a logical screening operation, and the assault on Dutch Harbor would fall into the category of either a preliminary raid to test strength or an attempt to divert defense forces from the scene of the main attack.

If the enemy's plan is to try to wipe out Midway preliminary to attacks farther east—in which case the Dutch Harbor attack would have been chiefly diversionary—he may anticipate that he is in for trouble.

Yet, just as at Wake and Bataan and Corregidor, if the Japanese want to take Midway at any cost—and the fact that battleships, aircraft carriers and cruisers took part in yesterday's raids indicates that intention—they may succeed in doing so.

An attempt to drive the United States out of Hawaii unquestionably would produce one of the greatest battles of history.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY
CHICAGO, June 5.—(P)—Wheat prices were down a full cent a bushel at one time today and corn sagged almost that much as the grain market's recovery of the past two sessions was halted.

A let-up in demand from the mill and flour trade was blamed partly for the reaction in wheat. Uneasiness because of war reports from the Pacific also was a factor and the market largely ignored Kansas messages telling of crop deterioration in some parts of that state the past week or so. One report suggested that bumper crop prospects in some localities have been reduced.

Short covering and recognition of the Kansas crop reports produced a late rally and wheat closed unchanged to 1/4c lower compared with yesterday, July 1.18-1.18 1/2, Sept. 1.20 3/4-1/2. Corn was unchanged to 1/4c up, July 36 1/2-3/4, Sept. 39 1/4-1/2; oats unchanged to 1/4c higher; soybeans 1/4-1/2c lower; rye 1/4-1/2c lower.

Sixty-Sixth Annual Commencement Service Held

134 GRADUATES GET DIPLOMAS AT EXERCISES

Outstanding Address Is Given by Dayton Resident

"The world does not owe you a living—it has one for you and dares you to get it" was the outstanding message left with the 134 seniors forming the sixty-sixth graduating class of the Washington C. H. High School who received their diplomas at the commencement exercises held in the auditorium Thursday night.

The message was left with the class by Glenn Massman, Dayton business man, in an outstanding address which will long be remembered by the large audience which packed the auditorium to capacity.

And following close on the heels of the message left by Massman was another equally effective, given by Ray Brandenburg, president of the Washington C. H. Board of Education, in receiving the class from Principal W. F. Rettig.

He said: "Don't forget—there is no such thing as luck and nothing worth while is every accomplished without work."

The stage was beautifully decorated with baskets of peonies, roses and other flowers and seated on the stage were the speaker, Glenn Massman, Superintendent A. B. Murray, Principal W. F. Rettig, Rev. Fred I. Gardner and members of the board of education—Ray Brandenburg, Otho O. Wade, T. H. Bush, H. Condon Campbell and Harry E. Wood.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Wood was at the organ for the prelude "Largo From Xerxes."

As the strains of the time-honored processional "Lead On, O King Eternal," with Karl J. Kay at the organ, heralded the entering of the big class, the audience arose and stood while the graduates marched in from each side, the boys in blue caps and gowns and the girls in white caps and gowns, and took their places in the center section of the auditorium.

It was a thrilling spectacle as the largest class in the school's history filed into the auditorium and filled many rows of the center section, with admiring parents, other relatives and friends on all sides.

Rev. Fred I. Gardner, pastor of the Church of Christ, offered prayer, and Mrs. Otis B. Core played a beautiful violin solo, "Hejre Kati," accompanied by Mrs. Robert Willis.

Supt. A. B. Murray, in a short speech, introduced the speaker, Glenn Massman, who is in charge of the safety department of Delco Products, Dayton, and widely known as a speaker. He spoke on "Marketing a New Commodity".

Massman's address was filled with wit and humor and at the same time was replete with vital messages to aid the students in their future life, as well as to assist all others who heard him.

"This is the night—the night you have been looking forward to for years" said Massman, in opening his address.

Some of the highlights brought out during his address were:

The way to be young is to be with young people, and the way to grow old is to try to keep up with them.

You are now ready for the test. You are now ready for the greatest selling job in the world. You are to market yourself and your services.

The three great things you must keep before you are personality, preparation and perseverance.

Your appearance regulates to a great extent an attractive and effective personality.

Learn the value of such a simple thing as a smile. Start the day with a smile. Have a tell-tale personality so that when you come into a room the room will be lighted by your presence.

A cultivated mind is one of the chief ways to develop tell-tale. Have a pleasant manner—it does not cost anything. Live an intelligent life, and have a definite goal.

Personality is your greatest asset.

The world does not owe you a living—it has one for you and dares you to get it.

You are graduating at a most inopportune time. You can all get a job, and I am afraid it is coming too easy for you.

The present situation can not last. There will come a time when jobs will be held only by merit, and you must prepare yourself for that time.

Don't forget that there is only one step between the leader and the crowd. The man or woman who has what it takes and makes just that one additional step is the one who forges ahead. The next step is up to you.

Don't forget that the only dif-

DIVORCE SOUGHT

Action for divorce has been filed in the Common Pleas Court by Leonard Lee, Jeffersonville, against Mary Ann Lee, to whom he was married at Matthew, Ind., March 13, 1926. Parties separated May 3, 1942. R. M. Winegardner represents the plaintiff.

FORECLOSURE SUIT

In Common Pleas Court the Home Owners Loan Corporation, in an action against Wilbur Matson and Ruby Matson, asks foreclosure of a mortgage given June 10, 1940, on lot 414, Washington Improvement Co. addition, to satisfy judgment sought in the sum of $1,483.97, based on a loan and repair of property. N. P. Clyburn represents the plaintiff.

ference between stepping stones and stumbling blocks is the way you use them.

Self development is necessary for success.

You are on your own now, and America is calling for leadership. In fact America is doomed and destined to play a most important part in world leadership, and you must be ready to do your part.

Have a firm conviction in your own ability and go forward believing in personality, preparation and perseverance.

At the conclusion of the address, Supt. Murray presented the class to the board of education, stating that it was a great privilege to do so, and congratulating the class upon their achievement after 12 years of work.

In receiving the class, President Ray Brandenburg extended congratulations and spoke briefly, urging the members to keep their enthusiasm and reminding them that a high school education offers a wonderful springboard to go forward to larger and better things.

In closing his remarks he said that "there is no such thing as luck, and nothing worth while is ever accomplished without work."

As the members of the big class filed across the stage in response to their names, read by Principal Rettig, Brandenburg presented the diplomas and extended congratulations to the individual members. O. O. Wade, member of the board, presented the diploma to his daughter, Margaret Glass Wade.

Principal Rettig then announced various awards to the members, calling them to the platform to present them.

Following is the honor roll in the order in which they stood, all students having an average of B or above for their four years of high school:

WESTERN UNION HAS CONTRIBUTION BOXES

The Western Union Telegraph office here, as well as some 20,000 other Western Union offices throughout the nation, now has a glass box to receive Navy Relief Funds, and the glass boxes are so arranged that it is necessary to break them apart when they are full of money.

The funds will all be forwarded to the New York office and then turned over to the Navy Relief Fund.

Inscribed on the placard over the box are the words: "Protect the family of the man who is protecting your family. Give to Navy Relief Fund."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Aerial Camera for use on Scout and Observation and Reconnaissance planes is essential to both the Army and Navy air forces in planning battle formations and in obtaining information on enemy fortifications and movements. They look something like a cannon, and cost about $3,400 apiece.

The aerial cameraman can plot wide territories in bold relief so that Army or Navy Intelligence can make accurate measurements of enemy territory. We need many of these cameras so necessary to the air arms of the Army and Navy. You can help buy them with your purchases of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income every pay day, and help your country go over its War Bond Quota.

MISS KERRIGAN GIVEN FAREWELL TRIBUTE PARTY

Teacher at Sunnyside for Half Century Honored When She Retires

Two hundred and eighty seven pupils, teachers, and guests assembled in the auditorium of Sunnyside school where the flag waved its stars and stripes above baskets and vases of peonies, roses and lemon lilies, to say farewell and say their tributes to Miss Agnes Kerrigan who has been retired.

First on the program came the singing of America, by everyone, and led by Principal Everett Minton, master of ceremonies. A scripture reading, taken from the book Phileasians by Mrs. Ethel MacElwain, followed by the Lord's Prayer and the Salute.

Prin. Minton introduced Mrs. Joel Bailey and two of her daughters, Mrs. Bailey sang "Today" and the girls joined her in "He'll Understand and Say Well Done."

Prin. Minton spoke a few words of praise of Miss Kerrigan, telling her that while she was leaving Sunnyside, that she was still just as much a part of Sunnyside as the new building, which she had worked so hard to obtain.

The curtain which had been tightly closed until this time, opened upon an attractive setting, in the center of which were two gifts which were presented to Miss Kerrigan by Prin. Minton. A beautiful walnut table and a table lamp, were the gifts of the teachers and the P.T.A. officers. A large chest decorated with huge Red Crosses and filled with First Aid equipment was given by the "Business Men" and a few close friends. This chest contained every article for an emergency first aid.

It came as a complete surprise and something of a shock to Miss Kerrigan.

Miss Kerrigan, always ready for emergency, came forward to thank each one and tell an interesting story of her life, which kept her listeners spell bound. Coming from a family of teachers, she started to school when she was but five years of age and was in high school when she was ten. She started teaching in a one room school in West Holland when less than sixteen years old. She spoke regretfully of leaving the Sunnyside school and said she was going to attend Ohio State University for the summer quarter. She has been named at the Alumna office of OSU for an honorary degree in Doctor of Philosophy in Elementary Education. Speaking of the Sunnyside people as her people, she told how she loved each and everyone there. Further plans have not been made by Miss Kerrigan as yet.

The Star Spangled Banner, sung by the audience, concluded the program.

After the classes found their rooms, ice cream, furnished by V. R. McCoy, Mrs. David Baruchet and others was served.

After taking her children to her room, Miss Kerrigan presented each child with an owl, made by her own hands, surrounded by various colored stars, blue birds, flag and an Easter bunny. The stars represented the grades made in the different subjects.

After the grade cards were distributed, she dismissed her children, many of whom cried at the parting. The remaining ice cream was taken to the Mark Nursing Home.

IT WASN'T THE HEAT BUT THE HUMIDITY!

Remember how you perspired and suffered from the "heat" Thursday afternoon?

Well, it wasn't the heat, it was the humidity. As a matter of fact the official score was only 88 degrees, but the humidity must have been so great that one could almost wring water from the atmosphere.

The night was a warm one, with a minimum temperature of 66 recorded. A cooling breeze was helping somewhat Friday. Last year 80 and 64 with .11 inches of rain was the record.

48 SENIORS ALREADY GIVEN EMPLOYMENT

At the annual commencement exercises Thursday night, Principal W. F. Rettig announced that 48 members of the class of 134 already had jobs.

He also announced that one member of the class had been inducted into the military service, five more had enlisted and would be leaving for military training soon, and 15 were known to have plans for entering college this fall.
